

WORDS FOR THOUGHT

Each of Today's readings for this Sixth Sunday of Easter looks toward the future while assuring us of God's continuing presence with us. The apostles rely on the Holy Spirit to guide them as to which Mosaic practices are necessary for all Christians. The author of Revelation envisions a new Jerusalem, radiant in the glory of God. In the Gospel, Jesus tells his disciples that the Father would send the Holy Spirit to teach them, to remind them of his words, and to advocate for them. Let us continue to rejoice this Easter season for God's abiding presence with us.

We are all simple but important instruments of his; we have not received the gift of faith to keep it hidden but rather to spread it so that it can illumine a great many of our brothers and sisters on their journey.

DID YOU KNOW

Mass is modeled after the book of Revelation

I think there is this stereotype that Mass is antiquated, or ritualistic. However, interestingly, much of the content of Mass is based on the book of Revelation, which is a book all about the future, and of that which is to come. For example, each Mass we sing the "Holy, Holy, Holy," which is straight out of Revelation 4:8. The idea is we are joining in with those in heaven in their unending hymn of praise. So that's a real profound moment, if you think about joining in singing the same song those in heaven are singing, and the connection between the physical and the spiritual that is occurring. And that's just one tiny example. You can do an entire study on Revelation at the Mass. The more you know, the more amazing Mass becomes.

Mass is offered every day.

Anyone looking to attend Mass can find one any day of the week, often offered at different times in different parishes. An interesting thing about this is if you think about time zones, and that daily Mass has been a global practice since the days of the Early Church, there is pretty much a Mass being offered somewhere continually on Earth at all times... and has been for... well a really long time!
